My View On the Internet

Nowadays, the Internet has become very common in our daily life, because we can surf the Internet everywhere by computers or mobile phones. However, the debate on the pros and cons of the network has never stopped. Different people have different kinds of views.

There are a lot of advantages. Firstly, with network, we can exchange information frequently and conveniently. In the information area, information is wealth. In many cases, whether we can succeed in something, it depends on how much information we get. In addition, except for its serious functions, network is a good tool to entertain. On the Internet, we can watch TV programs and movies, or we can play online games as well as chat with friends freely, which is a good way to relax.

Internet makes us happy and relaxed, but it has disadvantages, too. For example, nowadays, more and more children spend a lot of time playing computer games instead of doing homework. Moreover, because of the internet, people don't have chance to talk with others face to face any more, which made the relationship between us and others bad.

Every coin has two sides. In short, there is no denying that the Internet has its own disadvantage, but I think its advantages far outweigh its disadvantages. And we can make good use of those good but avoid those bad.

On the Private Car

Recently there has been a heated discussion as to whether a person should own a car. Attitude to this issue varies from person to person. Some think there are good reasons for owning a car. To them, a car allows a person to move freely. It brings convenience to its owner.

But there are many more arguments against such ideas. First, it can be very expensive to purchase, repair and even park a car. Secondly, owning a car can cause worry and stress. It is exhausting to drive in rush-hours in the overcrowded streets or to drive around and around to find a parking lot. Finally, as everyone knows that cars use fuel and give off exhaust, which may worsen the problem of energy shortage and environment pollution.

From the above discussion, we can see that the disadvantages of owning a car outweigh its advantages. So I think private cars should be restricted rather than encouraged.

On the Reasons of Attending Universities

Nowadays, there are an increasing number of people preferring to attend universities after high-school education, rather than going to work directly. There is no doubt that people attended colleges or universities for different purposes. There are several reasons for going to a university: preparing for a career, having new experiences, and obtaining knowledge.

Firstly, career preparations is increasingly important as the job market is competitive nowadays. At college, we can learn new skills for careers with a lot of opportunities. Secondly, going to college or universities can give us some new experiences that we cannot get from the society. It provides us with lots of opportunities to meet people from different places. Thirdly, going to colleges or universities is the first time for us to learn to be independent. By doing so we can learn how to take care of ourselves in the future life.

In conclusion, I consider that it is very useful to attend a university or college, because we can expand our knowledge in all kinds of subjects. What's more, we can enrich our experiences in the competitive society.

My view on Campus Violence

It is shocking to notice that extreme violence has occurred with frequency on campus in recent years. These tragedies seem to be unimaginable when students are regarded as the hope of the society. However, campus is becoming more and more frequent and bring a lot of bad influence on the society.

Some people claim that educational does not improve the morality of those students. Others believe that some students are fragile in their national minds so that they take out on other students. These opinions do make sense when we take the overlanded pressure imposed on students into consideration.

While there is no way to rid totally such violence of the world, it is more important to take measures to avoid those occurrences. Among those solutions, psychological aid is one. If psychological consulting had been resorted to, these tragedies could have happened with less possibility. In addition, schools should put more emphasis on students' mental health and reduce the burden on students.

The Positive and Negative Aspects of Tik Tok

With the development of technology, more and more increasing apps are emerging for people's recreation. Among them Tik Tok, a Chinese music video platform and social network platform, is gaining popularity around the world.

Some people are crazy about this app, because it not only allows users to watch musical clips, but also provides them with a platform to create their own short music videos with a list of background music and various special effects. Thanks to its advanced and easy-to-use technology, the app brings people of different ages many happy hours.

However, there are other people holding a negative view about this app. As far as they're concerned, prolonged short video viewing may be a waste of time. Besides, although most Tik Tok video are fun to watch, there do exist other vulgar video which are meaningless and even inappropriate for children to watch.

In my opinion, everyone has his own way to entertain him or her, but people who want to improve themselves had better read a book or learn a second language so that they can spend their leisure time in a more meaningful way.

The Celebration of Western Festivals

Nowadays, people in growing numbers are beginning to realize that they prefer enjoying western festivals, such as the coming Christmas. There is a general discussion today about this issue. Certainly, this is a sign of cultural diversity in our life.

A lot of reasons are responsible for it. To begin with, the young men are exposed to some international minds or trends which make people think western things more fashionable, and they are partly influenced. What's more, the western views have been spread widely, naturally, and culturally. Moreover, nowadays people have their rights to have a taste of various cultures. In other words, they may celebrate festivals they like besides the conventional festivals, like the Spring Festival.

Obviously, this does some effects in our life. For example, it will arouse anxiety among so-called protectors of tradition. They unnecessarily worry that the western festivals are to replace the Chinese ones. Personally speaking, the policy of "let it be" will do more good than harm in this field. However, it is necessary that effective actions should be taken to prevent the negative effects of both traditional and western festivals.

Should We Help Strangers?

Helping strangers has always been considered as a treasured virtue of mankind. We need help from others throughout our life, whenever we travel to other places or stay at home. On the other hand, helping others can make us happy. We feel great joy when we are trusted, needed and able to give a hand.

However, some people are cautious when it comes to helping strangers. They say that helping others involves risks of getting hurt or cheated. Lending a hand to a stranger often puts us in a vulnerable position for it means trusting someone we do not even know. Moreover, there are times when we have physical limitations. For instance, we can't swim but a girl is drowning, what should we do? If we are blind to that limitation, giving a hand would conversely take our life.

In my opinion, we should still offer what we can do to help those needed strangers. Meanwhile, we should be ware of getting cheated and use our common sense to tell whether the strangers are real needed people or just professional cheats. Detecting anything unusual, we should defend ourselves or turn to the police.

The Bicycle in China

The bicycle is the most popular means of transportation in China. China is a country "on bicycle wheels". People ride them for various purposes such as going to and from school and work. Bicycles are very cheap and easy to buy in China.

There are many advantages to ride a bicycle. First, using a bicycle can greatly help reduce the air pollution in many big cities. Second, people can improve their health by riding a bicycle.

The future of bicycle will be bright. In some European countries, city governments have arranged free "public bicycles" for pedestrians to travel around the city center.

Online Shopping

With the rapid development of computer technology, online shopping is becoming more and more popular, especially among young people.

Shopping online makes our life more convenient and comfortable. We don't need to go outside and look for what we need in the shops one by one. We can even buy the goods in foreign countries through Internet. By doing so, our precious time and energy can be saved. Besides, goods sold online are often cheaper than those in shops. This is because there is no middle merchant between the seller and buyer.

But there are still some disadvantages. Some people are cheated since the seller and the buyer do not make a face-to-face deal. The quality of the goods can not be ensured, either. Furthermore, the goods may be damaged during the delivery.

In my opinion, shopping online will play a very important part in our life, more and more people will be accustomed to this kind of shopping and benefit from it if we can make a good use of online shopping.

Attending Your Classes Regularly

Nowadays, it is very common phenomenon for some university students to be late for or even absent from their classes. And still there are some who slip out of the classroom before the class is over. Class attendance has become a thorny problem to both the students and the teachers.

In effect, it is beneficial for the students to attend their classes regularly. First, it will ensure a chance to keep up with the pace of teacher's lecture, which helps to do a good job in their study. Second, it is a way of showing respect to teachers. Only by showing respect can one win respect from others. Third, punctuality itself is a sign of self-discipline and trust-worthiness, which is of great importance for the future career and life.

Therefore, we university students should form the good habit of attending our classes regularly from now on. And some day we will benefit from it.
